The percentage of women who pass successfully the examinations for Government positions is greater than the percentage of the men examined.

Last year there were 2.084 examinations

one woman in six falled, and 1,704 of the lot were women. For clerkships in the classified departmental service, where the salaries range from $1,000 to $1,800, every fourth woman and every third man examined failed to pass. In the higher technical department women again scored a triumph. For the position of pomological clerk four men out of five exam-ined failed and three women out of four ex amined passed. In all 5,251 persons were ex-amined, 3,475 men, 1,776 women. Of the men 1,059 passed, and of the women 1,417 the women doing twice as well as the men, but 1,152 men received appointments and 323 women were given places. Matrimonial Mathematics.

A German statistician has discovered that maringes in Europe are most frequent where the husband is two or three years older than the wife. Women under twenty, however, usually take unto themselves husbands six or seven years older than themselves. The cases where the husband was six or seven years younger than the wife were just as numerous as those where he was thirteen or fourteen years older. Twelve and three tentus per cent, of all men who marry women under twenty years of age, according to the statistician, are between twenty-six and twenty-seven years old.

Recent census bulletins show that the preponderance in number of the females over the males in the New England States is giving The increase of males in the States of New England is shown to be in the nast decade 2,821,209, or 65 per cent, while of temples it was but 1.517.176, es a little over 21 per cent. In 1880 the females were 185,000 in excess of the males; in 1890 the excess is but 40,000. If this rate of decrease continues it will be but a year or so till the men will outnumber the women in the only section of the country where the latter have predominated. It is said to be one of the best sanitary materials for underwear. Wash and rinse in lukewarm water and do not iron.
Baby's daily tub seems a necessity in hot weather, as it is so much more cooling than s sponge bath, but it is frequently given up on account of the trouble experienced in secur ing it. The recent invention by a trained nurse of a portable bathtub that folds flat obviates this difficulty. It is made of pure rubber on strong drilling-cloth, and has pocke s for tohet articles, a towel-rack, &c. The water is drawn off by a faucet at the bottom. long-felt want.

A dainty little tennis gown is this and quite suitable, too, for a garden party. It is made of fine llama cloth or delaine, with a bodice of figured delaine, the plain vest being outlined with a narrow irill, and the puffed sleeves encircled with bands of ribbon velvet A frill of the figured material is placed round the skirt, and a soit fringed sash of surah is tied in a bow at the side and falls if long, graceful ends to the hem of the skirt giving just the fir ishing touch to this charm ing costume, which would look very nice !

made in delicate apple-green, the figured delaine being hawthorn design on a green ground and the velvet of darker green; or in hellotrope and white, with bands of dark And it would look almost equally well if made in plain and figured cambric or zephyr

in a pretty combination of color.

Doesn't This Puzzle You?

Two persons may be born at the same place and at the same in ment exactly, and yet, after fifty years have r iled around, they may both die at the same tostant, and still may be more than a huncred days older than the other. I think I hear some one say, "Impossible and "how could seen a state of affairs to brought about ?" but it is not impossible; if is simply a curious astronomical and geographical fac', very easily proven. A calm reflection shows that this oddity turns on $ very obvious problem in circumnavigation. Suppose, now, that two persons were born at the same instant in New York, from whence a trip around the world may easily be made in one year : if one of these persons constantly goes towards the West in fity years he will be fifty days behind the sta-tionary inhabitants; if the other sails equally as fast towards the East he will be fifty days

One, therefore, will have seen 100 days more than the other, though they were born at the same instant, lived continually in the me latit ude and died together.
